This is an action brought pursuant to Section 205(g) of the Social Security Act, codified as amended at 42 U.S.C. § 405(g), to obtain judicial review of the final decision of the Commissioner of Social Security Administration (hereinafter “Commissioner”). The matter is before the court for review of the Magistrate Judge’s Report and Recommendation (“Report”) made in accordance with 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B) and the local rules of this court. For the reasons set forth below, the court adopts the Report. The court, therefore, reverses the decision of the Commissioner under sentence four of 42 U.S.C. §§ 405(g), and remands the matter for further proceedings as set forth in the Report.

I. STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Magistrate Judge makes only a recommendation to this court as to dispositive matters. The recommendation has no presumptive weight, and the responsibility to make a final determination remains with the court. Mathews v. Weber, 423 U.S. 261 (1976). The court is charged with making a de novo determination of those portions of the Report to which specific objection is made, and the court may accept, reject, or modify, in whole or in part, the recommendation of the Magistrate Judge, or recommit the matter to him with instructions. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1).

The role of the federal judiciary in the administrative scheme established by the Social Security Act is a limited one. Section 205(g) of the Act provides, “[t]he findings of the Secretary as to any fact, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive . . .” 42 U.S.C. § 405(g). “Substantial evidence has been defined innumerable times as more than a scintilla, but less than a preponderance.” Thomas v. Celebrezze, 331 F.2d 541, 543 (4th Cir. 1964). This standard precludes a de novo review of the factual circumstances that substitutes the court’s findings for those of the Commissioner. Vitek v. Finch, 438 F.2d 1157 (4th Cir. 1971).

The court must uphold the Commissioner’s decision if it is supported by substantial evidence. Blalock v. Richardson, 483 F.2d 773, 775 (4th Cir. 1972). “From this it does not follow . . . that the findings of the administrative agency are to be mechanically accepted. The statutorily granted right of review contemplates more than an uncritical rubber stamping of the administrative action.” Flack v. Cohen, 413 F.2d 278, 279 (4th Cir. 1969). “[T]he courts must not abdicate their responsibility to give careful scrutiny to the whole record to assure that there is a sound foundation for the [Commissioner’s] findings, and that his conclusion is rational.” Vitek, 438 F.2d at 1157-58. The Commissioner’s denial of benefits shall be reversed only if no reasonable mind could accept the record as adequate to support that determination. Richardson v. Perales, 402 U.S. 389, 401 (1971). The Commissioner’s findings of fact are not binding, however, if they were based upon the application of an improper legal standard. Coffman v. Bowen, 829 F.2d 514, 517 (4th Cir. 1987).

II. DISCUSSION

The Magistrate Judge recommended that the court reverse the Commissioner’s decision and remand the matter pursuant to sentence four of 42 U.S.C. §§ 405(g) based on the Commissioner’s concession that “the [Administrative Law Judge] erred in his analysis regarding the treating physicians' opinions and the Appeals Council erred by failing to consider and include new evidence in the record." Report at 3-4. Plaintiff objects to the Magistrate Judge's failure to recommend remand under sentence six as well as sentence four.

After careful review of the record and for the reasons set forth in the Report, the undersigned concludes that the remand is properly based solely on sentence four. The court, therefore, concurs with the recommendation made by the Magistrate Judge as well as the reasoning set forth in the Report.

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, this court adopts the Report and Recommendation of the Magistrate Judge and remands this action for further proceedings pursuant to sentence four of 42 U.S.C. §§ 405(g). On remand under sentence four, the ALJ should review the case on a complete record, including any new material evidence which was presented to the Appeals Council.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
